

ValueTrust brings 73 Strings’ digital valuation solution to Germany, Switzerland and Austria

Munich/Zurich, 28 July 2022

We are delighted to announce a collaboration with 73 Strings under which ValueTrust will introduce 73 Strings’ digital valuation solution to clients in Germany, Switzerland and Austria.

The combination of 73 Strings' leading semi-automated valuation product QUBIT X and ValueTrust's financial expertise creates a one-stop shop for all valuation requirements, and our integrated approach to testing, onboarding, training and ongoing support ensures a highly efficient and sustainable valuation solution.

73 Strings delivers key technology solutions to help Alternative Investment Funds, Banks and Corporates to grow with the digital age, facilitating valuation analyses, managing related risks and extracting more intelligence out of the vast amount of data required to do so. The technology enables substantial operations efficiencies and insights through analytics while enhancing users’ processes and experience.

ValueTrust stands for solution-oriented, partnership-based and sustainable financial advisory in demanding corporate situations. Working closely with executives and investors, and with an experienced team of financial experts in Germany, Switzerland and Austria, we will accompany 73 Strings through their processes and client relationships in these geographies.

"While complex financial advisory services around our clients’ capital agenda continue to be the core of our business, we see significant potential for digital solutions in our market. QUBIT X is an innovative self-service valuation tool that allows our clients to optimize speed, quality, efficiency and consistency of repetitive valuation tasks. We are delighted to collaborate with 73 Strings and introduce QUBIT X to our clients."

Prof. Dr. Christian Aders, Chairman of the Executive Board and Senior Managing Director of ValueTrust

"We are excited to collaborate with ValueTrust in the DACH region, a leading independent valuation and corporate finance advisory firm. We share common values, starting with the ambition to bring the most innovative solutions to our clients, as well as a best-in-class expertise and experience within the Alternative Investment Funds industry. Together, we will transform the middle office process, adding efficiency and robustness, and enabling our clients to extract more intelligence out of the process and the data associated with it."

Yann Magnan, CEO and co-founder of 73 Strings.
